These districts have been subject to tribal conflicts, armed conflicts and other conflicts including land and property disputes for years. UCLF community legal assistants have been involved in reconciliation and peace processes through peace management and peace building. Additionally, UCLF as well in partnership with Rwenzori Peace Bridge and Reconciliation (RPBR) trained local leaders on peace processes and facilitate in formation of peace clubs. • Engaged in processes aimed at ending post conflicts in Gulu. During the LRA insurgence, many people were displaced and hence losing their legal land ownership in the process. However, in the post conflict era, there has been a lot of land conflicts and it is evident that due to UCLF's intervention, many differences have been settled and harmonized through Community land rights awareness and also adopting mediation to end long term land conflicts. • The Mentorship between young lawyers and law students achieved through the mentorship program.
